

Christian writing and speaking

There are five basic principles to observe when writing or speaking about Christianity.

It must give glory to God!

God created everything and what we do is use it in one form or another. All we can do is rejoice in that He allows us to use it!

It must be for the purposes of God or His Kingdom.

Any other purpose could only be for selfish reasons. If we obey God and do His Will, His promise is that He will perfectly provide all we need!

It must show God's Love in some way

Everything God does expresses His love in some way and if we talk or write without showing His love then we are not expressing His character when we write or speak.

It must not promote the writer or speaker in anyway.

They are there to present the mind of God and not their own mind or they become their own idol.

The purpose of Christian writing or preaching is to present the mind of God as best they can which means that either writing or preaching is guided by The Holy Spirit. Otherwise they are writing or preaching from their own reason and may be missing what God is desiring to say through them.
