

Why is Jesus humanised in modern Bibles?

Modern theologians use historical methods to Judge Jesus and so cannot really see anything historically that makes Him Divine and so look to other religions to see what He should be like by looking at the religions of His time and arguing He should be like these and so modify The Bible to remove His divinity and all that would point to it so that He is like any other founder of a religion. To do this they rationalise about the proofs of His Divinity and prefer negatives reasonings about it than positive ones built on faith.

They ignore the warning in 2 Cor 10:5, to take everything captive to Jesus and not assume, imagine or reason things out without reference to The Bible. This means anything supernatural done by Jesus is not considered real or possible. This means they believe that miracles no longer occur which means the main proof of Jesus is not accepted as being a real event. When asked why these occur, they cannot explain but reason there will be something found that will explain them as being not supernatural.

So, they do some or all of the following:

Imply Jesus had a normal birth

Sinned

Cannot be redeemer

Was not resurrected

We need to work at our salvation because the cross was ineffective for salvation. This was incorrect as the cross was about redemption as salvation has always been by faith.

He was promoted by God (made divine) for His sacrifice and obedience.

As a result this makes Christianity like any other religion so all religions can use the new modern bibles as Jesus is like the founder of any other religion and can also fellowship together (which explains why ecumenicism is growing). So we now have a one world bible for all religions that want to use part or whole of it (including the new age and Satanists) as they will find little in it to offend them.

Now to go into detail in how they do these things.

They deny The Trinity because they do not believe Jesus is God so there cannot be a Trinity. They do this by removing 1 John 5:7 saying it was not in the early Bibles, but there is much evidence to show it was there and accepted by early Christians.

They remove Mark 16:9-21 and as a result remove a lot that makes Jesus Divine:

They remove the resurrection. They cannot historically prove it and as no other person has ever been resurrected, they assume Jesus could not have been.

They remove the authority delegated to us by Jesus over Satan and his works. No other religious founder has been able to cast out demons let alone authorise others to be able to and as they consider Jesus human, He also could not do these things.

They remove the delegated authority to heal sickness which no other religious founder has or is able to give.

They remove the resurrection and the Ascension of Jesus. No other religious founder has actually seen being ascended into heaven.

The fact He did miracles in His own ministry or raised the dead and removed demons is nothing special. After all Elijah and Elisha did those things.

They implied Jesus sinned in Matt 5:22 and John 7:8 so cannot be redeemer. They confuse Calvary as being where salvation was and not redemption. So, they say Jesus cannot save you when salvation has always been through faith. So, they remove nearly every implication or statement that says salvation (redemption) is through Jesus so that you have to work at your own salvation and salvation no longer is from God's Grace but by your efforts.

Redemption has no place in their theology because Jesus cannot redeem you so you need to do something additional to what Jesus did to obtain Salvation.

There are many verses dealing with these things and you will see this when you look at a modern bibles that show these are removed. You will usually find the margins saying older versions have this (or similar) where the verses have been removed or adulterated.

They deny His virgin birth translating 'virgin' as 'young woman' in some versions and declare Joseph and Mary are His parent and not God and Mary.

The Modern New Testament are full of these changes and there are 8000+ changes made to the King James to remove the Divinity of Jesus, amongst other things so I mention only a few.

As you can see modern bibles are not based on faith but on man's reasonings about it based on historical precedence and the assumptions of their theology.

Why do they need Jesus to be human? So that He is no different to the founders of other religions and so they can all be combined in a one world religion using one bible ore its beliefs they can relate too.. They do not realise Satan is using them to prepare this for his antichrist so that they will soon be removed as the one world religion rulers and replaced by Satan.

The only way to show Jesus is superior is to show His Kingdom has come through casting out demons, healing the sick and raising the dead using the authority of His Name. But most churches do not do this believing it is not able to be done today/

Satan certainly has most churches and Christians really messed up.

This is why the three great revivals just before the tribulation occur to restore Jesus to how He should have been treated by showing He is superiors to the founders of other religions by what is done in His delegated authority. This show He is God able to delegate these things and that He also cause them to happen which other religious founders cannot do and by this show He is different to them and God.
